

The Ghosts of the Teutoburg Forest

*In September 9 AD, deep in the forests of Germania, three Roman legions were destroyed.
Their march was broken. Their standards were lost.*

*This is not a story of conquest.
It is a story of endurance, betrayal and silence.
A story carried by mud, fog and forgotten footsteps.*

*What was lost here changed the frontier of an empire.
And echoes still today.*

*The forest remains.
The paths remain.
The silence remains.*

*The XVII, XVIII and XIX legions were never rebuilt.
Their numbers were erased from Roman rolls.*

*Some defeats are too heavy for history to rewrite.
Some echoes do not fade.*
